County-wide fire ban ordered

by Jerry Grozelle

Haliburton County fire officials have joined neighbouring jurisdictions and instituted a county-wide ban on all open fires. The hot, dry weather has caused extreme fire hazard conditions.

Dysart et al Fire Chief Miles Maughan said that all of the county's fire chiefs agreed the ban was necessary.

More than a dozen Minden firefighters, assisted by an eight-man MNR crew and the Ministry water bomber, fought a bush fire north-east of Mountain Lake Thursday. Minden Deputy Fire Chief Doug Schell said it took firefighters from 4 p.m. to about 9:30 to extinguish the blaze, which consumed about 2½ hectares, mostly hardwood forest. No buildings were involved.

The ban on open fires in the county will be in effect until fire officials announce otherwise. It will take more than a few showers to alleviate the tinder-dry conditions.

A number of fires have already been extinguished in the county. As of late last week, Maughan said, his department had responded to three bush fires, two of which were small. The other, in the Redstone Lake area on May 1, took 21 firefighters five hours to extinguish.

"It burned right up to a cottage," Maughan said. "An MNR helicopter pilot spotted the smoke and reported the fire." The helicopter was on a fish stocking mission when the pilot contacted the base by radio and the information was relayed to the fire department by telephone.

Maughan said a couple of local residents battled the fire until the fire department arrived on the scene.

Maughan said he hoped the ban could be lifted by the long weekend, but conditions will have to improve significantly.

SOMETHING'S FISHY: Junior Kindergarten to Grade 6 pupils from across the county had the opportunity to tour the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association Hatchery last week. The youngsters learned how the fish were raised and as an added bonus, those who toured the facility Wednesday saw a Ministry of Natural Resources helicopter in action as it transported fish from the hatchery to area lakes. A group of pupils (above) got some 'hands on' experience when they were allowed to touch some of the speckled trout before they were taken to their new homes in county lakes and streams. ## East meets west: discovering Ikabana

by Matthew Sittler

It's lineage stretching back thousands of years, the art-form Ikabana continues to walk a fine line between unsaid rules and individual interpretation.

Beginning this week, visitors to the Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton Village will be given the opportunity to behold some 73 telling examples of this esteemed Japanese tradition. Haliburton Artist Sophia Tink explains how Ikabana is an artistic expression steeped in a rich history, adhering to traditional methods and values. "It began in the 14th century," says Tink of the floral-arranging discipline. "It has now evolved into 2-3,000 schools, each of which teaches a certain style. It originally started with the Rikka school, and Ikabana is arranged with real flowers."

Ikabana's basic philosophy strives to emulate the harmony between the heavens and the earth, she adds. Not unlike many oriental traditions, this art is simple within its clean lines that express notions of emotion and mood. "The colours that you use, the

Making a difference, one person at a time

by Matthew Sitrer

You can make a difference, and what you think is extremely valuable.

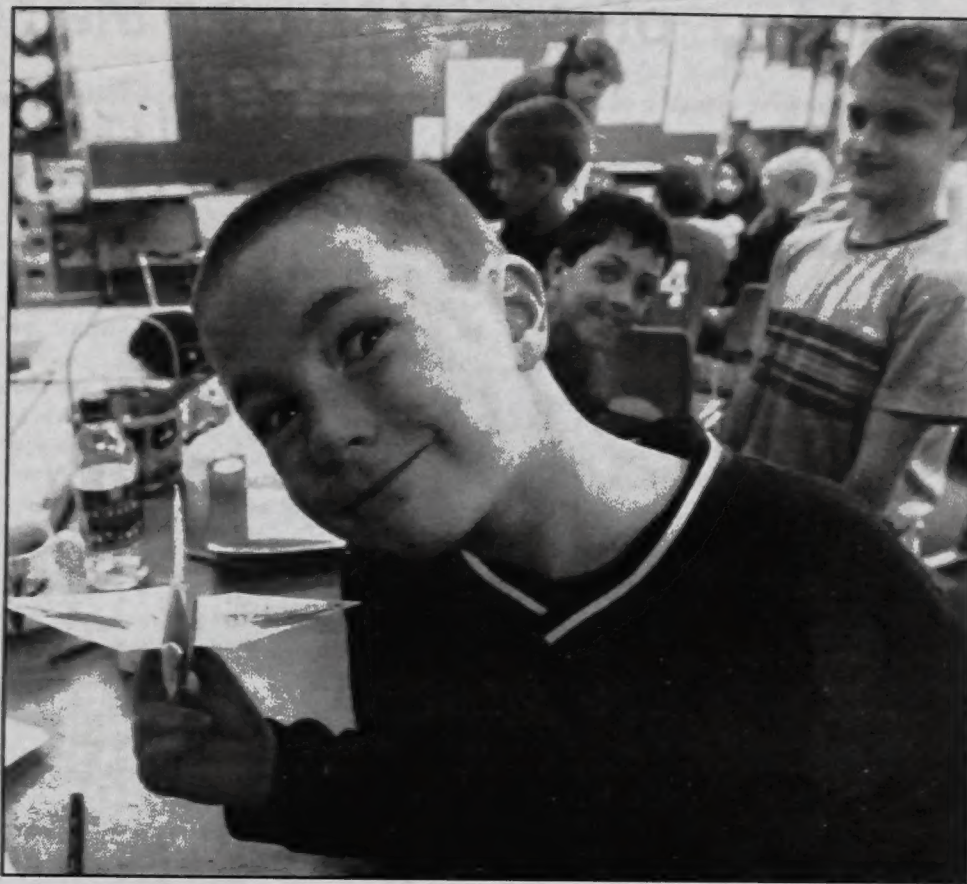

Explaining to elementary level school children that they do have a say in the workings of the world, was only a part of the message being offered to them last week. As part of this year's Peaceful Schools Program, facilitated by the YWCA, schools were working to empower students, helping them to realize the implications of their own words and actions.

While the Peaceful Schools Program focuses on the prevention of bullying and also offers workshops for students and a newsletter for teachers, the real celebration this year was the youths' artistic expression - culminating with a display of their creativity at the Rails' End Gallery, in Haliburton Village, which opened this past weekend.

Entitled "Sadako and the Thousand Cranes," (named after a book written by author Eleanor Coerr,) the show runs until May 12. Open to the public every day between 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., area teachers have already been encouraged to bring their students to the gallery to view the vibrant artwork.

"I am pleased to see the gallery being used and enjoyed by young people," said Rails' End Gallery curator, Laurie Carmount. "Art has such a strong ability to reach kids. If we can give kids the opportunity to develop an appreciation at this age, maybe it will continue on into their adult life."

Last week, students in Mrs. Coney-

Grade three student Evan Luke shows the paper crane he made following the traditional Japanese paper folding technique of origami. The crane is part of a display of work of students from throughout the county at the rails' End Gallery in Haliburton. (See more students and their cranes on page 16.)

beare's Grade 3 class at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden were enthusiastically preparing paper cranes which would be later included in the display.

Making a paper crane was part of each bullying prevention workshop and it is hoped that there will be a crane from every elementary student in Haliburton County hanging in the gallery in time for the opening.

In the show, the crane not only represents the importance of all our actions in preventing bullying and other forms of violence, but also it is a symbol of belonging together in a geographical location.

Sadako and the Thousand Cranes draws inspiration from the true story of Sadako Sasaki, a young girl who was only two years old when the atom bomb was dropped on her city of Hiroshima. By her twelfth birthday, she was diagnosed with leukemia, a result of the radiation from the bomb. When Sadako went into the hospital, her classmates wrote letters to her and one of them told Sadako the tale of the thousand cranes. It was believed that if a person folded a thousand cranes their wish would be granted. Sadako wished that she would live forever. She managed to make 644 paper cranes before she died. Her classmates compiled her letters into a book and shared Sadako's story and her desire to make a thousand cranes.

Today Sadako's story has cast its wings in all countries and the paper crane has become a symbol of peace for children around the world. In 1958, a monument was unveiled in the Hiroshima Peace Park, depicting Sadako with her arms held out and the inscription: This is our cry, this is our prayer; peace in the world. Remember: One person's words and actions do make the difference.

Lack of JP means lengthy delays for by-law officer

by Matthew Sitrer

The following items were discussed at the May 3 meeting of Algonquin Highlands (the former Stanhope, Sherborne et al) municipal council.

There is need for a Justice of the Peace in Haliburton County, Chief By-law Officer James Moore told council for the third time.

In need of someone with the legal authority to sign documents, Moore explained the hassle he has to endure every time he goes to serve a summons. Last year, for instance, Moore had to go to Lindsay to get a summons as a preliminary step in quelling the noise of a barking dog on Halls lake. He served the summons, but then had to travel all the way back to Lindsay in order for the Justice of the Peace there to sign it, acknowledging it had been served.

The lack of a Justice of the Peace is a huge waste of time and money, he said. "I am aware that Haliburton Highlands OPP Staff Sergeant Walli is dealing with the Solicitor General's office in order to try and get something worked out," added Moore. "Even if we had one for the whole County, it would be better than nothing," agreed Reeve Harrison.

Longer hours rejected

Sherborne Councillor Kerri Locke's suggestion, that the Dorset satellite office remain open on Wednesdays, as well as Tuesdays and Thursdays, was rejected by the council. Currently, the Algonquin Highlands Chief By-Law Officer James Moore, works at the office on those two days.

Reeve Harrison and others suggested that this was not an ideal plan. "The whole point of shutting down that office was to save money," she answered. "We obviously wouldn't be doing that if we added an extra day."

There are many questions the public will have as the summer busy season in Sherborne gets underway, argued Locke, who stressed the convenience of having an extra day on the schedule. The idea was shelved pending a look at the budget.

Algonquin Hills Clerk Angie Bird added that in speaking with Mr. Moore, he had indicated that his schedule took him out of the office working on municipal matters Wednesdays, and the suggestion was

Let's talk: Prostate cancer survivors want to help others by sharing their experiences

by Matthew Sitrer

If you had thought you were alone, you should pause and think again.

While its discovery will initially, (and undoubtedly) shake your world to its foundations, the news that you have developed prostate cancer is just another fact of life for a growing number of middle-aged men.

Prostate cancer is "coming out of the closet", and, starting in Haliburton County this summer, one group hopes it will become the subject of some heartfelt discussion on an ongoing basis.

A disease that strikes one in eight men during their lifetime, most would be surprised to learn of its insidious tenacity. Minden Hills Reeve Ross Rigney was diagnosed with the condition, so was another regular guy around town, Rick Ratcliff. He discovered, during the course of his treatments, the healing value of talking openly about the feared condition. Which explains why, along with Rigney, he's forming Haliburton County's first Prostate Cancer Support Group.

"Women have been pushing breast cancer for years," notes Ratcliff. "It has a very high profile, and is very visible. They have support groups and articles in the papers. Men don't do that - they tend to keep quiet about their illnesses."

Primarily affecting men over 50, prostate cancer was responsible for an estimated 1,550 deaths in Ontario during 1999. In Canada during 2000, over 16,000 men were diagnosed with it, while some 4,100 died of the disease. And that number is growing. The incidence of prostate cancer has increased during the past 10 years by more than 5% annually. "It's the most frequently diagnosed cancer in men and accounts for 30% of all cases after lung cancer," says Ratcliff. "It's the leading cause of death in men."

Quick diagnosis is crucial

The difference between dying from the condition and living with it, he reflects, is largely due to a quick diagnosis. "When I was diagnosed, I went in for surgery and they discovered it had already spread into my lymph nodes," he continues. "Once it has spread outside of the prostate itself, they cannot get it out."

What followed for Rick was a series of hormone treatments meant to shrink the cancer, coupled with radiation intended to kill it. This was accompanied by a healthy dose of fear. "Now it's wait-and-see," he adds wistfully. "It will come back, it's just a matter of when."

Ratcliff confirmed he had always gone for an annual physical. In 1999, a year after he and his wife moved permanently to Haliburton County, he took a blood test which indicated something wasn't right. "Then I started going through all the other tests," he says. "I saw the urologist, got a bone scan, a biopsy..."

Other than a book his urologist had provided him, he says he couldn't find any substantial amount of literature on it," he says adding, "Ask questions. Ask, ask, ask - When you go to your doctor, take your wife or a friend along with you."

Ratcliff's doctor believes he had had the condition since his forties. Now 55, Rick feels he had many of the symptoms, but ignored them because he was not aware of them. Some of these were:

- getting up in the middle of the night to urinate,
- lower back pain,
- painful ejaculation during inter-

the Minden Healthcare Centre, the support group will offer a time to relax in the company of others afflicted with the condition, and a place where they can get problems below the belt, off their chests.

"People in a rural area are probably a little more closed-of-mouth," says Ratcliff. "They do keep their personal problems to themselves, and some men may find it difficult to talk to others about prostate cancer." It is his hope this trend may soon change.

"I wish I had talked more about it when I was first diagnosed," he says. "It's nice to have someone come back and say 'It doesn't have to be a death sentence.'"

The support evenings are not necessarily designed only for men, says the organizer. "We encourage they bring their spouses and mates, because they are the ones giving a lot of support."

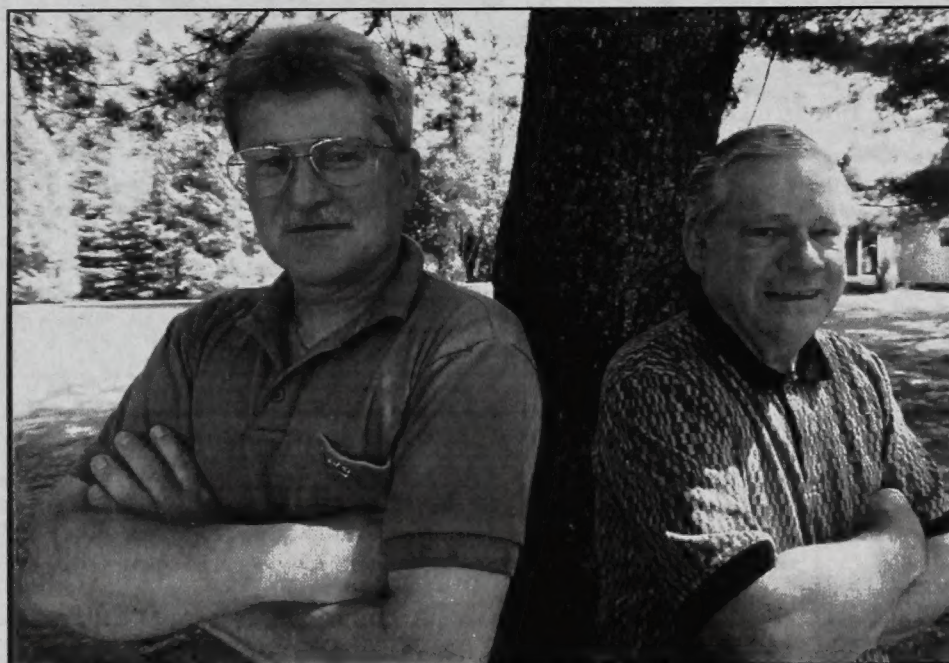

Ross Rigney, Reeve of Minden Hills, who was diagnosed last year with prostate cancer, will be facilitating the support group sessions along with Ratcliff. "I went to a golf tournament last August," he says. "I was meeting with the guys, and many of them came up to me and said 'Oh I heard you had your prostate out,' - all of a sudden, I'm hearing from four guys in a row who have all had their prostates out."

Rigney says he is aware of others within Haliburton County who are in the same predicament. "My guess is that up here, if the stats are correct, there are a lot of people who already have it or are about to get it."

With grants totaling $718,825 set to fund Canadian Prostate Cancer Research Projects this year, the issue is also receiving more attention officially. Causes for the disease are not yet clear but are thought by medical experts to include of dietary, environmental and hereditary factors, but more research is needed to identify its causes in order to prevent the disease.

Even with successful treatment, there can be side-effects which include incontinence and impotence. Anyone with questions about prostate cancer, or who has it or is concerned about a loved one who has come down with the disease, is invited to contact the Haliburton County Prostate Cancer Support Group by calling either Rick Ratcliff at 286-6699 or Ross Rigney at 286-1765 or by e-mail at ross.rigney@sympatico.ca or Rick Radcliff at leacliff@sympatico.ca

More information can also be found at the Prostate Cancer Research Foundation of Canada's website: www.prostatecancer.on.ca

Rick Ratcliff and Ross Rigney: They hope a support group will help other men deal with questions, concerns and fears about prostate cancer.

the subject. "There wasn't that much information you could glean from anywhere," he explains. "Although later my wife started going on the internet, grabbing tons of stuff on prostate cancer."

It wasn't until Rick went to the Princess Margaret Hospital for his radiation treatment (where he stayed at the Princess Margaret Lodge for seven weeks), that he learned how helpful speaking positively with others affected with prostate cancer could be. "I found tons of literature at the lodge itself," he remembers. "And the nurses had weekly sessions where they talked about it. We were able to talk to other men there too who had it themselves." Finding this very comforting and supportive, the lodge aspect stayed with the cancer patient.

The mission and objectives of the Haliburton Prostate Cancer Support Group will be to offer local men the same opportunity. "It's to let men talk and to find out more information about course,

- feeling "full" even after urinating,
- and having problems starting or stopping during urination.

"All these things point to a problem with your urinary system and/or your prostate," he says. "It doesn't mean you have cancer. You could have benign prostatitis or just an enlarged prostate, but once you get into a situation like that you should have the tests to see if anything else is affecting it."

Meetings planned

The Haliburton Prostate Cancer Support Group plans to meet monthly, and Ratcliff hopes to attract a prostate cancer specialist who will speak at the inaugural meeting. "We hope to get other men interested, and we are shooting for sometime between the end of May and the end of June," he adds. (Watch for an announcement in The Times when the date for the meeting is set.)

Astronaut will address students at HHSS

by Matthew Sitrler

Slipping the surly bonds of earth is what United States astronaut Mike Mullane did for a living.

Helping local students understand space and his adventures there is what he will be explaining later this month when he speaks at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

"He'll be talking about his shuttle experience obviously," said Hydro One Networks Health, Safety and Environment Manager, Brian Tink. "It will be a motivational speech - he will focus on safety being a number one priority in any work environment."

Mullane specified his interest in speaking with kids as part of his priorities once he became involved with Hydro One, said the manager. "This is a thing he takes on himself," said Tink. "He's very accommodating, and when he had heard about what we were planning to do he was very cooperative and said he'd make himself available. Clearly he has a motivation to get in front of students."

Principal Gary Brohman was ecstatic about the astronaut's visiting the school. "We have also invited the grade eight students from Archie Stouffer and J.D. Hodgson and will invite the students from Cardiff," he said. "That gives us a gym-full of one thousand people. It's for the kids, and we are extremely happy to partner with Brian and Hydro One on this project."

It's thrilling to think that we all have the chance to listen to an astronaut who has had dreams and reached those goals."

Scheduled for Monday, May 28 between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., the event will provide area students with the unique perspective of someone who has gone where not many have gone before.

"It's all guts-stuff," continued the Principal, "This is a special event. We all get smarter by listening to good people. Reading good books and listening to good people never hurt anybody."

Mike Mullane was selected as a Mission Specialist in 1978 in the first group of Space Shuttle Astronauts. He completed three space missions and logged 356 hours in space aboard the Shuttles Discovery (STS-41D) and Atlantis (STS-27 and 36) before retiring from NASA and the Air Force in 1990.

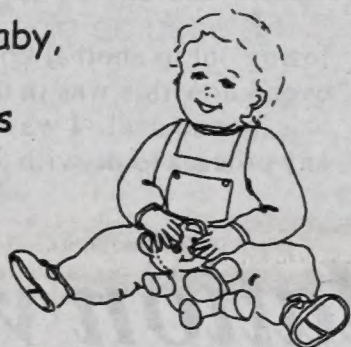

Mullane has been inducted into the International Space Hall of Fame and is the recipient of many awards, including the Air Force Distinguished Flying Cross, Legion of Merit and the NASA Space Flight Medal. Since his retirement from NASA, Colonel Mullane has written and published a novel: Red Sky - A Novel of Love, Space and War, and an award-winning children's book, Liftoff! among others. As a professional speaker, Colonel Mullane has thrilled tens of thousands of adults and a quarter million children with his inspirational, motivational and humorous descriptions of the Astronaut experience.

"This will be very exciting for the area," added Hydro One representative Brian Tink.

Delaying the pain?

The decision to issue debentures to pay for road upgrading may be one that comes back to haunt the Haliburton County Council. At its April meeting, the council agreed to sell $2.7 million worth of debentures, (with an additional $2 million being offered by the municipality of Dysart) to fund an ambitious road rejuvenation program. If paid for with current funds, the county would be facing a potential 30% tax increase. By borrowing the money, a debenture is similar to a mortgage, the county can reduce the increase to about 10% by spreading the payments over the five year term of the debenture.

Debentures are often used by municipalities to help cover the cost of major capital expenditures. New buildings, expensive fire trucks, expanding water and sewer infrastructures. However, in the past, the day to day operation of the municipality, paying staff, property upkeep and road maintenance always came from the annual tax base. Although we can appreciate all the reasons for doing so, this latest move by the county appears to be contrary to that practise. We wonder if issuing debentures to defer tax increases is going to become the norm. We are also concerned that the process may reduce the accountability that comes with making decisions about managing a municipality and where the funds to support it will come from.

Helping the local economy

Editor:

I have delayed writing this letter for several reasons, but in the end, I think it is worth my peace of mind to speak out.

I read the announcement regarding the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce and the web page contract they awarded to a company from Toronto. I have mixed feelings over this, and I see a problem here.

On the one hand, I see my tax dollars funding the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, and helping to pay the salaries of the employees. I further see the Haliburton County Development Corporation trying to draw business to our area, in order to bring our standard of living up a notch.

I then see the Chamber of Commerce giving our money to a company that is going to spend the profits of the contract in Toronto restaurants, gas stations, movie theatres, etc.

This money belongs in Haliburton County, and there are many qualified people in this County that could have done this job. Please don't mention the word "tender" to me, I think it is an unfair way to treat the residents of this County. I have been through a couple of them, and I see them for what they are.

I hope there are those out there that agree that this is not the way to improve the living conditions of our county, it really gives us a huge slap in the face.

Jim Callaghan, Minden.

P.S. This letter is not a result of my losing out to another company, I did not even know this was in the works until it was a done deal. I was not involved in any process to do with this contract.

Assimilation vs segregation

Editor:

I was more than interested in an issue raised recently in the Toronto Star and would like to expand upon it here. A letter to that paper from a recent immigrant to Canada, Pradip Rodrigues referred to an article entitled "Canada needs more immigrants."

It was obvious to Rodrigues that the Canadian dream of non-white immigrant is segregation and not assimilation into Canadian Society. He pointed out that the native born population barely tolerated new arrivals. The white moved farther in seclusion and their neighbourhoods turn into ethnic neighbourhoods. The new arrivals, sensing this rebuff, retreat deeper into their cultural and national identities.

We, as Canadians, should be concerned about what is happening in our country and especially in our cities. The way our government is bringing in thousands of new immigrants and turning a blind eye to the dangers of creating a number of diverse communities, could lead to a very unhealthy situation and one that could cause major problems down the road.

I agree whole-heartedly with Mr. Rodrigues when he says the government needs to urgently and honestly look at the issue of assimilation, because Toronto is turning into a city of distinct homogeneous neighbourhoods.

I would be more concerned as a white Canadian about these events than I would be about Quebec separating. I want to see a united Canada under one flag and be proud to say, "I am Canadian!"

Protections offered in statistics gathering

press release from Statistics Canada

On or around May 1, a representative from Statistics Canada will deliver a yellow Census 2001 envelope to your door. Along with 31 million people across Canada, in about 11.8 million households, you will be asked to complete and return your census questionnaire.

Every five years, Canadians across the country take part in a national census.

By law, you must provide this information. By this same law, the confidentiality of this information must be protected.

The answers to these questions offer us a snapshot of our lives and the country we live in. The information gathered is used to make policy decisions with regard to economic and social programs that affect us all.

But while an accurate census is important, personal questions of any nature can be intrusive. That's why the Privacy Commissioner of Canada made recommendations to Statistics Canada to ensure that the process of collection, as well as the content, respects Canadians' rights to privacy.

These recommendations led to the following changes:

- if you know your local census representative and want to keep your information private, you can call the national toll-free Census Help Line (1 800 591-2001) to find out about other ways to return your questionnaire;

- you can complete your own questionnaire if you do not want to disclose personal information on the questionnaire provided to your household;

- your census representatives do not live in your enumeration area;

- all census representatives will take part in training to make them aware of individuals' privacy concerns;

- new messages on the drop-off and mail-out envelopes clearly explain the role of enumerators; and

- the national toll-free Census help line is listed prominently on the questionnaire envelopes.

To find out more about the Census and your privacy rights, or how to find your personal information held by the Government of Canada, call the Office of the Privacy Commissioner at 1 800 282-1376 or visit the Web site at www.privcom.gc.ca.

Slicing & dicing your way to beauty

Consider the case of a gorgeous South American by the name of Juliana Borges, only 22 years old and by all accounts, stunningly, supernaturally beautiful.

So beautiful that she's been chosen as Miss Brazil.

There are 170 million people in Brazil and half of them are women. Juliana Borges has been judged the comeliest of them all. And to what does this statuesque, willowy siren owe her great good fortune?

To fabulous genes?

A perfect diet?

Pure, dumb luck?

Nope, nope and nope.

Miss Brazil owes her title to her personal plastic surgeon.

In her 22 years on the planet, Miss Brazil has been under the knife no fewer than 23 times.

She has plumped her breasts up with silicone. She has had fat vacuumed off her thighs. She has had her ears sculpted, her nose bobbed, her cheeks and jaws padded out with sundry inert materials and she has seen to it that various birthmark-type anomalies have been sandblasted to smithereens. "Plastic surgery made me more beautiful" says Juliana. "It gave me the confidence in myself and the perfect measurements that won me this title."

It's a sad tune, but not a new one. Pamela Anderson used plastic surgery to give herself a bustline like the prow of a Chris Craft.

Joan Rivers, the wisecracking talk show harpy, gleefully spent hundreds of thousands of dollars over the past few decades fending off Father Time by having herself nipped, tucked, padded, abraded and otherwise surgically shored up.

To me, she looks like an X-ray of the Walking Undead but she seems happy with the ersatz apparition she sees in the mirror each morning. Whatever works, I guess.

Juliana Borges, along with her resident silicone hummocks and blobs, will be representing her country at the Miss Universe pageant shortly, and nobody seems to be unduly upset about it. Call me old-fashioned, but I would have thought a contest dedicated to seeking out feminine pulchritude would have specified that it be natural, not plastic.

Funny things happen when people resort to self-sculpturing. Michael Jackson used to have a pretty normal looking nose. Now, after umpteen rhinoplasties, he has little more than two blowholes in the middle of his face.

And then there's the case of the French performance artist who calls herself Orlan. Mademoiselle Orlan is currently in the final stages of a ten-year work in progress that she calls The Reincarnation of St. Orlan. What she is doing is - and I wish I was making this up - having a team of plastic surgeons construct the largest nose her face can support while she delivers lectures.

According to a report in The Chronicle of Higher Education, Mlle. Orlan is off to Japan where, next year she will lecture on post-modern philosophical theory while surgeons install the largest honker her face can handle.

Ah, beauty.

Voltaire once said: "Ask a toad and he will tell you that beauty is a female with two great round eyes in a tiny head, a large flat mouth, a yellow belly and a brown spotted back".

I dunno. Next to Mlle Orlan, that sounds pretty hot to me.

Shift change at Gramma's

A new owner has taken over at Gramma's Fish and Chips, Highway 35 and 121 in Minden. Margaret Ross, right, acquired the business from Heather Johnston May 1. "I plan to continue with the same great menu, featuring the popular fish and chips," the new owner said. Margaret is eager to meet the regulars who frequented the restaurant in the past, as well as new customers. Gramma's, with its movie motif, is located next to The Corner Store.

Police asking drivers to slow down on the holiday weekend

This Victoria Day long weekend take a break, but not from common sense.

Slow Down! During your travels this long weekend, pack some patience for the road. Speeding is one of the contributing factors causing traffic-related collisions.

Be aware of the posted speed limit on the roadway you are travelling. Remember, the beach will still be there once you arrive! Be cautious of the influx of young children and pedestrians walking and playing along roadways during the summer months.

Central Region Ontario Provincial Police encourages safe driving on all roadways and asks us all to remember: Common sense saves lives! Travelling 35 km/hr over the speed limit will cost you $255 and four demerit points.

Break and enter in Stanhope

The OPP investigated a break and enter in Stanhope township at a cottage on North Shore Road. The investigation of April 27 revealed that the storage shed had been entered, and several items were taken. The theft occurred sometime between April 21 and April 27. The items removed from the property included a Sears radial arm saw, a gas powered weed eater trimmer, a red Canadian Tire air pig, a Canadian Tire car battery, a Ski Doo snowmobile helmet and an Evinrude metal gas tank.

Mischief in Haliburton

On April 27, the OPP also investigated a break, enter and mischief to a trailer located at a business on Industrial Park Road in Haliburton. The trailer was entered through the side door, and a fire was set in the sink. Also, a red vest, black and white lumber jacket, various baseball hats, and other shirts and jackets were taken from the trailer.

Break and enter in Havelock Township

The OPP investigated a break and enter to a cottage on Grant Road in Havelock Township. The investigation revealed that the basement lakeside door had been forced in sometime between April 16 and April 27. Several power tools and electronic equipment were removed from the cottage.

Sneaker Day

Get out, get active
Participate in Sneaker Day
Friday, May 11, starting at 11 a.m. from the gazebo by

It was laughter, smiles and sweat as Grade four to eight students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School skipped rope for the Heart and Stroke Foundation Friday. This year's pledges raised $6,844.22 for the worthy cause.

LIFT-OFF: A Ministry helicopter lifts off with a load of fish destined for lakes in Haliburton County. Sixty-five Haliburton County lakes and a few streams have several thousand new residents thanks to the stocking efforts of Ministry personnel and HHOA volunteers. Thirty thousand speckled trout, which were raised at the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association Fish Hatchery, as well as about 60,000 splake and lake trout from the Ministry of Natural Resources hatchery in North Bay and nearly 3,000 rainbow trout from the Ministry hatchery in Harwood were stocked over a three-day period last week. Most of the fish were stocked by helicopter, with an average of eight flights per day from Monday to Wednesday. The hatchery was the base of operations for the helicopter on Wednesday. Tuesday, the chopper flew from a base at Kennisis Lake and Monday it used a site near the Frost Centre.

Timmy Heming Golf Tournament slated for May 24

The sixth annual Timmy Heming Golf Tournament and BBQ is fast approaching. The golf tournament is scheduled for the Delta PineStone Course while, once again the Sunny Rock Bed & breakfast will host the post golf festivities May 24. The event attracts a loyal following of community friends, camp directors and staff and friends, for a good cause.

The proceeds from the day's activities go to the Timmy Heming Bursary Fund, which is used to assist disabled children in the community. Last year, two children were sent to summer camp through the Camp Awakening Program which operates Camp Awakening at Camp Kilcoo and Gay Venture. In another instance a child's dental work, including cleft pallet surgery, was paid for in part from funds generated at the tournament. The community generously supports the tournament with cash and prizes.

Registration for the tournament and the BBQ is $55 per person, $240 for a foursome. The community is invited to attend just the BBQ as well. The cost is $25 per person.

For more information and to register, please call Sally at the Sunny Rock Bed and Breakfast, 705-286-4922.

HCHSS plans spring golf classic

Haliburton County Home Support Services will be holding its inaugural Spring Golf Classic on Tuesday, June 19 at the Blairhampton Golf Club.

The tournament will consist of a nine-hole competition, beginning at 1:30 p.m., followed by a roast beef dinner at the club. Prizes will be awarded for the lowest score, longest drive, closest to the pin and if anyone manages to score a hole-in-one.

"We are calling on the County's business community to support this fund-raiser by donating prizes or becoming sponsors," said HCHSS President Bob Mitchell. "Early indications show strong support and that it will be a successful first tournament. With the experience from this year's tournament, we will expand to 18 holes next year. On behalf of our clients, volunteers, director and staff, I would like to extend our appreciation to the business community for its support."

Fees for the tournament are as follows: $65 per person, including golf, prizes and the roast beef dinner, $45 per person for the golf only, and $25 per person for the dinner only. All proceeds from the event will support the services provided by Haliburton County Home Support Services, such as transportation, Meals on Wheels, Emergency Response System, Wheels to Meals, home help, home maintenance and social recreation.

HCHSS has a mandate to provide services to seniors (55+) and the physically challenged (18+) in order that they may remain in their homes for a longer period of time.

To register for the tournament, or for further information, contact Jerry Rome at 705-286-2814. Registrations are also available at Wilberforce East, Minden Home Hardware, Minden IDA Drug Store, Haliburton Home Hardware or at Home Support. The deadline for registration is June 12. Tickets are limited, so register early to avoid disappointment.

GOOD NEWS!

The Minden Indoor Lawn Bowling (M.I.L.B.C.) will be starting a new season on Monday, May 14th and have reduced the seasonal dues for new members from $80.00 per person to $40.00 per person! Members who have already paid for year 2001 will have the difference placed in a reserve fund which will pay for year 2002. This has been made possible by a grant received from the Ontario Trillium Foundation.

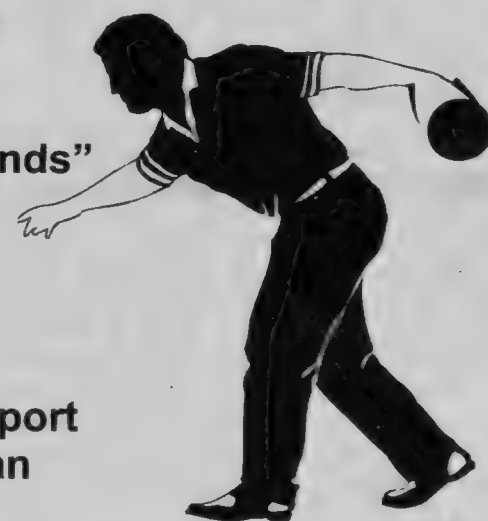

"This foundation is an agency of the Ministry of Citizenship, Culture and Recreation. With $100 million in annual funding from the province's charitable gaming initiative, the Foundation provides grants to eligible charitable and not-for-profit organizations in the arts, culture, sports, recreation, environment and social service sectors".

A general meeting of club members will be held on Tuesday, May 15th at the Minden Curling Club at 7 p.m. Members are welcome to bring anyone who may be interested in joining the club.

An "Open House" is scheduled for Thursday, May 17th when "on hands" instructions will be available along with coffee and cookies!

M.I.L.B.C. has once again rented the ice surface area of the Minden Curling Club, which is located east of the fairgrounds on Bobcaygeon Rd., so come on out and see for yourself what a great sport it is and what great sports our members are. While lawn bowling is an excellent pasttime for seniors, the younger set and expected "baby boomers" will find that it requires considerable skill and concentration.

In addition to the reduction of seasonal dues, team members will be able to bowl as many times a week as they wish. Social members rates are unchanged at $10 per season but they too can join as "spares" and bowl with a team at $5 per game. This is a lot of enjoyment for the money so come out and meet the club members at the "open house".

please call Laurel Tompkins at 489-2266

JK to Grade 6 pupils learn about outdoor heritage

Outdoor heritage activities such as fishing, hunting and trapping were among the subjects elementary school children from Haliburton County learned about when they toured the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association Fish Hatchery last week.

Students from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School acted as tour guides for the three days the tours were conducted. They ushered hundreds of inquisitive pupils through the exhibits in the hatchery's interpretive centre, answering questions and explaining the components of the displays as well as the operation of the hatchery facilities.

The youngsters who toured the hatchery Wednesday saw hatchery volunteers loading an MNR helicopter with speckled trout and watched it fly out to stock the fish in county lakes.

Displays such as the one at right, of a simulated aquatic habitat, were designed to show the visitors how the various life forms interact, but the display of the different animal pelts (below) had a special appeal for some, who preferred the 'hands-on' approach to learning.

way the medium sways, all utilizes a tremendous amount of detail in the work," she confirms.

There are seven rules that are not to be deviated from with Ikabana. That said, Tink's work ranges from the very-modern to the more traditional. She works on commission part of the time, and holds personal interaction with the recipient of the piece in high regard.

"If someone has an idea for something, they are certainly welcome to call," says Tink. "I encourage them to bring in a container and we can work together to come up with something." It is a learning experience for both artist and patron, in that personality, home decor and the harmony between the heavens and this mortal coil are all incorporated into a dynamic, living piece. "It's about how to put things together, and that process builds more confidence about it," says the artist.

Different pieces evolve when associated with different people. Like no-two ripples on a pond are exactly the same, works of Ikabana incorporate a seemingly endless stream of possibilities out of whole cloth.

"Someone will say, 'Well I don't really have a container', and I'll ask where the piece is going," she says. "They do end up bringing many containers even if they are not traditional ones. Because it is not just an arrangement that sits on a table, it has to reflect the home life and where it is going. If the container is very modern, old traditional flowers would not be used."

Unlike many western traditions, empty space is not looked at as something that needs to be "filled". It has to be done tastefully and with care. "And it has to be functional," says Tink. "Your design can go in any direction and it can be put in anything."

A sort of renaissance woman, Sophia Tink works in interior design, and paints in watercolour to bide her time as well. "I do try to incorporate the discipline into my framed work," she says. "So that people can enjoy the detail and the harmony on their walls." Whereas some of her media have been westernized with freeze-dried techniques, the flowers she utilizes are always real. "Not everyone is confident enough to put some of the calm, oriental pieces in their homes, but I would say there are not many differences between the oriental work and the rest."

Drawn naturally to simplicity as a person, Tink reflects she has evolved as an artist through the years by natural progression, and feels she draws more than a bit of her inspiration from the beautiful

Highlands surroundings. "You're seeing nature at its most pure here," she says. "I mean, I use bark, and bits of everything - even if I don't use something that I've collected for a long time, it will be used eventually in the right place and at the right time."

Working at times late into the night, Tink feels her expressiveness is intuitional. "It just flows. The frames, colour and medium all work together." At times, the wide variety of work this has given birth to can be a comedic hindrance. "Sometimes a person will see a piece marked 'sold', and be annoyed when told they can't have a piece exactly like it," laughs her husband Brian.

With patrons established over the course of her career, world-wide, Sophia Tink has shown her interpretational pieces outside of Haliburton County already. She hopes people visiting her Rails' End Gallery showing will be moved emotionally by her work, perhaps coming away feeling they would enjoy trying their hand at it sometime in the future.

"My objective is to move people in some way," she states. "I really want them to draw something from the piece - be it emotion or mood."

Her studio, located just off of St. Peter's Road on Beech Lake in Stanhope, is open between Wednesday and Sunday, from 10-6, but she does tell people just to drop by as she lives there as well. "I like people to come by and have a look, and to learn about Ikabana, because learning is just as important as appreciating its aesthetics." Sophia Tink's show runs at the Rails' End Gallery until May 16. For more information on Ikabana, contact her at 489-2573.

Council briefs

Committee will be struck to select Algonquin Highlands logo

not at all convenient.

Phone calls to the Dorset Satellite Office are forwarded to the office in Stanhope on days when it is closed, added Reeve Harrison. "People can ask their questions there on Wednesdays," she assured the council.

Logo submissions

Many submissions in response to the municipal logo contest have been received by council and were viewed at the meeting. It was suggested that a committee, made up of two artists from the northern and southern portions of the municipality respectively (four people in total), be struck to judge what submission best meets the needs of the new municipality. It is hoped this committee will make its decision by June or July. "It would be nice to get this bit taken care of," noted Reeve Harrison, "because a lot of work will follow this decision."

Shoreline Closure Policy

A consolidated Algonquin Highlands shoreline allowance policy is being sought by council, and hopefully can be set in the very near future. In the meantime, there are a few wrinkles left to be ironed-out, CAO Gerald Bain told council.

In Sherborne in the past, a lawyer had been responsible for much of the administrative work, said

Bain. "Sherborne had an administration fee of $100, plus an advertising fee of $275." Land fees and survey costs were in addition to the two figures.

By contrast, in Stanhope, a $300 administration fee was in place. That amount included ads and all administrative work which was done out of the municipal office. The total reached $350 for the applicant there, said Bain.

"There is now need for a decision on what we will do together in the future," he told council. He went on to list reasons that he had for continuing it the way it has already been done in Stanhope. "In order that we don't slow down, I recommend we continue with the administrative work here, but raise the fee from $300 to say, $900." This new fee would conceivably cover all related costs, he added.

The suggestion was added to the draft, which is expected to come back to council shortly for decision. "I think we've reached a stage a lot of municipalities have reached," said Reeve Harrison. "I don't think that we are going to make a tremendous amount of money doing this, but we know we can't keep providing services without adding taxes. I think it's time that people recognize that this adds to the value of a property."

Thank You

This past winter was an exceptional one for outdoor enthusiasts across our county. With an abundance of snow and great weather conditions, snowmobilers from far and wide enjoyed some of the best sledding in many years.

The directors of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, on behalf of snowmobile riders everywhere, would like to extend a big thank you to these special groups:

- To local businesses for their hard work and dedication in selling trail permits. Without the revenues from those sales, equipment could not be purchased or repaired, and trails would not be built and groomed.
- To our many landowners who grant permission each year allowing us to groom trails on their private property.
- To our many groomer operators who spend many long and lonely nights making trails tabletop smooth.

Without the support and commitment of these three groups, the H.C.S.A. could not provide a quality trail network for local snowmobilers as well as for our valued visitors. Once again, thank you and we'll see you next year.

BEST SEAT IN THE PLACE: Seven month old Dawson MacDuff was the centre of attention Saturday morning during the Child Car Seat Clinic held at Ridgewood Ford in Minden. While all he had to do was sit tight, his mother Tanya, left, learned the proper way to secure the seat and the child, when the seat can be used facing in the other direction and other matters relating to the safe use of infant car seats. The clinic was sponsored by the Haliburton Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit along with support from CHACE Place. Bev Jackson, was one of a number of volunteers who helped assess the car seats and their use and advise parents and grandparents on its proper use. The clinic proved to be popular with many families including grandparents stopping by to learn about child car seat safety.

Dump truck dilemma

It wasn't quite what they had in mind when they called it a dump truck, however, this flipped truck quickly became the centre of attention Thursday afternoon, on Highway 35, near Walker's Garage. The vehicle, driven by Barry Thompson, took the sideways spill when the bank at the edge of the roadway gave out under the weight its load. The shoulder had been cut away as part of the Highway 35 widening project. The driver was unhurt in the mishap and the truck, belonging to Larry Hewitt, was reported back in service the following day. Heavy equipment already on the scene was used to right the truck and extract it from the ditch.

Stepping out on Sneaker Day

A good way to blow the cobwebs away

submitted by Morris Duff

Bette Herlihey, set to turn 91 next month, put herself on a walking program over the winter. Her goal: Get in shape to visit her grandson, who teaches high in the mountains of Costa Rica.

"I knew I'd be walking everywhere over rough terrain, up-hill and down-hill, Herlihey said. She joined the walkers at Archie Stouffer Elementary School at 7:30 a.m. striding the halls until 8:15.

Herlihey built her stamina to where she achieved two miles at close to 18 minutes each.

The mountains of Costa Rica gave her few problems. Anyone who loves seeing birds and other wildlife, who enjoys marvellous beauty in nature, would be impressed by Costa Rica, Herlihey believes. In contrast to other Latin American countries, she saw no abject poverty and found the people looked healthy, presumably because of the country's priority on health and medicine.

"I felt no fear anywhere I went," she added. "I felt perfectly comfortable and safe."

Her grandson, Taylor Judson of London, Ontario, is a volunteer teacher with Youth Challenge International, an organization devoted to protecting Costa Rica's high mountain environment. He teaches in the Santa Elena Cloud Forest, an area so high that the clouds descend and cover it. It is noted for its hiking trails over suspension bridges, linking the tops of giant trees. "There are no sidewalks. We had to walk everywhere...It is a truly beautiful country," the Minden woman recalled. She saw white faced monkeys, corgi, toucans and crested kingfishers.

Herlihey is a well-known figure in Minden as she speeds along the sidewalks to shop at the super markets or get books from the library. Former students, such as Pat Campbell, recall her teaching

French, Latin, English, Geography and History at Minden's two room high school located upstairs in Archie Stouffer.

Bette Herlihey is ready for Sneaker Day.

On Friday, Herlihey is planning to take part in Minden's seventh annual Sneaker Day. The event is neither competitive nor a fund raiser. Friday's walk begins at 11 a.m. at the Gazebo next to the Gull River bridge. Walkers are invited to complete up to 2.75 km, over the wilderness trail that runs behind the museum.

Herlihey's fast pace goes back to her childhood on an Ottawa Valley farm, when she collected the cows for milking and walked two miles to a one room school.

That distance increased when she attended Ren-frew High School and she had to catch the early morning train. It bothers her when she sees today's student's riding school busses and missing that exercise. "I always feel better when I walk," Herlihey said. "It blows the cobwebs away. And it helps me sleep better."

She gave up driving 10 years ago following an accident, and has few regrets about changing her mode of getting around. She's convinced that walking is a major reason she's so healthy.

After marrying the late Robertson Herlihey, who became vice principal of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, Herlihey quit teaching because that's what married women had to do in those days. World War II changed that rule. "But with two small children, I wasn't anxious to do that much," the South Water Street resident added. So she taught when needed.

Last batch worn out Eggs and Ham replaced at libraries

The townships have new names but our branch locations remain the same.

Hours and other information are all available through our website which is now linked with that of the Chamber of Commerce www.haliburton.county.on.ca

Feedback on this and any other library programmes is appreciated.

In developing a library collection, we have to consider the needs of all of our patrons and make sure that even the "oldies" are as available as possible. That's why Green Eggs & Ham shows up on today's list. The ones we had before simply wore out and it was time to get new ones.

We have also had feedback from readers asking why we just list titles now and don't provide the brief annotations. Let us know your preference and we will do our best to oblige. By the way, annotations over just a straight list are winning right now!

Here are this week's new addition... all are available at or through your local branch of the Haliburton

The goal is to restore the old mill in Kinmount to operational condition.

Seat belts are a must: OPP

During your travels this Victoria Day long weekend, members of Central Region Ontario Provincial Police are encouraging motorists to ensure all passengers are safely and securely buckled up for the trip.

Passengers under the age of 16 years are the responsibility of the driver. Infants and children are required to be fastened in a child restraint specific for the weight and height of the child. The safest seating position for a small child travelling in a passenger van is the centre position in the middle set of seats. Infants and small children travelling in other vehicles are best situated in the centre position of the back seat.

Take the time to learn more about safe travelling with children. Last year during the Victoria Day long weekend there were 6 fatal motor vehicle collisions.

Make "buckling up" part of your plan for a safe vacation. Travelling without wearing a seatbelt will cost you $105 and 2 demerit points.

Karen Beener and Kathleen McCafferty listen as Food Advisor Averil O'Donoughue offers some tips on good nutrition and cooking practises. The display was part of the Community Care Victoria County monthly gathering at the Burnt River Somerville Centre, April 25. In addition to providing advice on meal preparation, the meeting was also recruiting volunteers for the Community Food Advisor Program. Participants complete an intensive training program and then visit shut-ins, seniors and other who would benefit from their guidance. The program teaches individuals how to prepare nutritious meals, even when only cooking for one or two. The items covered include safe food handling and storage, before and after preparation, Canada's Food Guide, getting value for your food dollar, planning nutritious menus and low fat cooking, among others. While training begins in September, the organizers are looking for registrants now. The community Food Advisor program is supported in part by the Health Unit, the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care. Those interested in taking part should contact the program sponsor Youth Aflame Ministries in Coboconk by calling 454-8875.

Mental health information sheets now available

Individuals interested in information about mental illness will be able to find it much easier thanks to the efforts of the Family Caregiver Network.

The Network, through its regional co-ordinator, Joan Peacock, and Haliburton County representative, June Partridge, has distributed binders to key locations throughout the area.

"Each binder contains pages describing common mental illnesses, their symptoms and how they are treated," Partridge explained. "The books are here to assist individuals who are interested in information about mental illness."

"The purpose is to make this information readily available to the public," Peacock added. She noted, people who are reluctant to ask about a mental condition might be more willing to examine a binder or ask for a photo copy of the sheet.

The binders have been placed in a variety of public locations, including libraries, doctors' waiting rooms and other areas where individuals might seek help.

June Partridge, left and Joan Peacock, presented a mental health information binder to Haliburton County Librarian, Joel Levis, at the Minden Library. The binder contains fact sheets on common mental illnesses.

In a related matter, the network is looking for volunteers from the Highlands who are interested in representing the area at the Network. June Partridge is the current representative and has announced she will be stepping down from the position. She hopes there are individuals in the community willing to assist with this program.

The Family caregiver Network is funded through the Ministry of Health and Long-term Care. It covers the four counties of Haliburton, Peterborough, Northumberland and Kawartha Lakes. The purpose of the Network is to provide support for families of individuals with mental illness. This support is provided through: outreach and promotion; information and referral; peer linking (family helping families); education of families and the general public; education support groups; and advocacy.

Anyone interested in assisting should contact Joan Peacock at 1-888-454-8875.

From winter to summer in just a few days. Now we are adjusting to the heat. No complaints!! The season is soon upon us. The stores were full on the weekend as I am sure cottagers are back up again to prepare their summer home for those long hazy days. I hope you did not find too many unpleasant surprises left behind by that long hard winter!! I saw a lot of pick-up trucks and trailers going by last Wednesday full of branches and brush on the way to the Ingoldsby dump, I presume. Lots of clean-up this year. May flowers are vigorously appearing. It seems like I can actually see the peony plants growing. It is a glorious time!! Life in abundance again!!

Mother's Day on Sunday. I hope all mothers have a good connection with their children that day. Luckily for me, I am going to see my three 'girls' and my grandson of course. He is reading now!! How time flies. They grow up so fast. Our children do too of course. My 'baby' is turning thirty this week!! I remember the day she was born as if it was yesterday. My Mother's Day thoughts!! Have a good day Moms!!

***

The mystery of the message on my machine was cleared up. Helen Cox called back to say she is the one who wants a ride to the 55 Alive Driver Refresher course on May 9 at the Pinestone. Please call Helen at 286-2224 if you are going and can give Helen a ride.

This Friday, May 11 is Sneaker Day!! All the build-up leads to this walk!! This is the seventh year in a row for this event. We can be proud that we are able to sponsor it so successfully in our wee village. All the walkers are asked to meet at the gazebo by the bridge at 11:00 a.m. and then they will be walking the 2.5 kilometres on the trails behind the museum, the art gallery and the arena and back to the gazebo.

The purpose of Sneaker Day, which is celebrated in communities across Canada, is to show Canadians how walking and hiking is a fun way to find a healthier lifestyle. It is not a fund raising event but just a group 'participation'.

In that vein, Anne Marie Cyr, Public Health Nurse, suggests we can all find time for activity if we decide to do it. We feel better when we are physically active. In fact being inactive is as dangerous to your health as smoking. We are never too young or too old to start living actively!! Sneaker Day is a good way to start!!

***

It is hard to believe it is time for the second show at the Agnes Jamieson Art Gallery. Starting on May 10 and running until May 27, there is an exhibit entitled "On Common Ground" by Donna Bisschop, an artist who works in acrylics, pen and ink and sculpture which all reflect her connection to the rhythm of nature. Donna has been working with children at the gallery, and last winter also, with adults. Dove-tailing this exhibit is a performance installation created by multimedia artist Greta Hildebrand and poet Patricia Abram. You can explore this spiritual journey of discovery through sight, sound and touch. Please come out and meet all the artists on Saturday May 12 at 2 p.m. and to experience their performance at 2:30 p.m..

***

Wishing everyone a great week, in the warmth, in the garden, walking, enjoying the work of our creative artists, feeling the family around us, being ourselves in all this diversity!!
